*TLC quality home health care
in a faith-based tradition*

For 135 years, The Lutheran Care Network has been providing caring services for all ages, either in one of our 11 facilities, or in the comfort of their own homes.

We have a long, rich history and a trusted relationship with many families. We don't take any of this for granted. We understand that quality care and respect for people are first and foremost, especially today as the paradigm of home health care is changing. With people living longer, the need for services that meet their new requirements for care is growing. We understand that families are busy, and prefer to work with an organization that cares about their needs, too, and respects their commitments and time.

TLCN staff is committed to quality care, including respect for an individual's physical, emotional and spiritual needs. The well-being of those we serve is our top priority.
